Thank you.

Northwestern holds collaboration among its defining community values—and here in admissions, we hold you among our most significant collaborators. We know how hard you work to prepare students and their families for the college process, so please don’t hesitate to contact us throughout the admissions cycle if our input or insights might make your job easier. We’re happy to serve as a resource, and we’re grateful for your partnership as educators.

New academic programs.

Northwestern’s commitment to and leadership in interdisciplinary scholarship is evident across several new majors and academic initiatives:

- The Neuroscience major (added fall 2015) crosses traditional academic boundaries to address new opportunities and challenges in understanding brain function and dysfunction.

- The Asian American Studies major (added fall 2016) combines core courses on Asian migration and contemporary communities, ethnic relations and culture, as well as opportunities for field research.

- The Learning sciences major (added fall 2016) integrates three related themes: cognition and learning processes, social and cultural contexts of learning, and designing for learning.

- Previously only offered as a minor, Global Health Studies (added fall 2017) is now available as an adjunct major—an interdisciplinary program to be paired with another primary major.

- Computer Science is undergoing a $150 million expansion, including 20 new faculty in core computer science areas as well as collaborative “CS+X” appointments with other disciplines.

We are continuing to offer off-campus alumni interviews on a space-available basis. Important details are as follows:

- Interviews are not required, nor can we accommodate all interview requests, as we do not have alumni interviewers in every region and face further limitations due to applicant volume.
- Early and Regular Decision applicants will be notified via email of interview availability and sign-up procedures.

Beginning in fall 2017, applicants can confirm receipt of all required application materials via an online applicant portal. The portal will also enable students to upload application updates.

As in past years, SAT subject tests are optional for most applicants, as are the SAT and/or ACT writing sections. Homeschooled students and applicants to special programs should visit our website for specific testing policies.

Application rounds and deadlines remain the same:

- November 1 EARLY DECISION (BINDING)
- January 1 REGULAR DECISION

As of fall 2016, we accept either the Common Application or the Coalition Application. There is no preference for nor difference between either of these applications. We also continue to partner with QuestBridge, and our campus Quest Scholars network is among the nation’s largest.

As of fall 2017, all undergraduates will be required to live on campus for two years as part of an expanded residential program designed to foster diverse and inclusive communities and enrich academic life.

In 2016, Northwestern eliminated loans from undergraduate financial aid packages. We continue to meet 100% of demonstrated need for all admitted students.

The Office of Student Enrichment Services opened in fall 2014 and has since expanded to better engage students and their allies with programming and dialogue around low-income and first-generation experiences.

Application process.

- Students can submit an application from either the Common Application or Coalition Application; Northwestern has no application preference. The QuestBridge application is accepted in conjunction with either the Common Application or Coalition Application.

- Applicants to our Early Decision admission round agree to withdraw all applications at other colleges and enroll at Northwestern if admitted. In recent years, Early Decision applicants have comprised roughly one half of the incoming class.

- Given early applicants’ high level of interest and the high concentration of academic and personal strengths represented across the early applicant pool, our Early Decision acceptance rate is higher than that of Regular Decision.
